THINGS THAT SHOULD NOT GO IN THE BLUE BIN

Contamination in Recyclables Causes More Damage Than You Think

FOOD WASTE

Food waste in your recycling bin can waste your recycling efforts. Often food has already started to mold or rot and this may cause useful cardboard to be wasted.

Leaving food in recyclable containers also adds another step to the recycling process; causing workers to scrape containers and check to see if it can still be recycled.

CHIP BAGS

The truth is, most chip bags are made from aluminum laminated with polypropylene, also known as metalized polypropylene, or low-density polyethylene film. This basically means it's a hot plastic and aluminum hybrid mess. Please check the bag for a recycling symbol prior to purchasing. If it doesn't have one, IT GOES IN THE GREY BIN.

ANIMAL WASTE

This one isn't even passable for recyclable. Dirty diapers, animal carcasses, and syringes are often found contaminating the blue bin. Placing waste there just because "the bin is the largest" is not a solution. Please call to upgrade grey bin sizes if needed.

WALLET

Keeping the blue bin free of non-recyclables is the easiest way you can keep your costs down. Otherwise, you might as well throw your wallet in the grey bin.

BUSINESS RECYCLING PROGRAM

An Integrated Approach To Recycling And Waste Reduction

Business Curbside Recycling Program

A Curbside Recycling program, similar to the program offered to residences, is available to businesses and organizations. Larger blue recycling carts are typically provided for this service and smaller collection containers suitable for interior spaces are also available. This program is provided at no cost to the participants and is currently funded as part of rate funded services. Participants are required to keep the recycling carts free from contaminants.

Cardboard Recycling

Businesses and organizations generating a significant amount of cardboard may also request a cardboard recycling bin at no additional charge. Participants are required to keep the cardboard bin free of contaminants.

Small Business Hazardous Waste Recycling

Businesses, schools, government agencies and non-profit groups located in Yuba and Sutter Counties may qualify to use this special drop-off program to economically dispose of limited quantities of common hazardous wastes, such as fluorescent tubes, alkaline batteries, and paint. You must be approved in advance and an appointment is required for each delivery. There is a charge for this program. Volume limits will apply depending on waste type. Referrals can be provided for larger quantities or wastes that cannot be accepted through this program. Visit YubaSutterRecycles.com and click on "Hazardous Waste - Businesses and Organizations" or call the Environmental Department at Recology Yuba-Sutter at 530-743-6933 for more information.
